Senator Fred Love Announces Candidacy for Governor

Pledges to Defend Public Education, Rebuild Local Economies, and Restore Citizen Voice in Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK, AR (June 23, 2025) – Arkansas State Senator Fredrick J. Love officially announced his candidacy for Governor today, launching a bold campaign centered on protecting public schools, empowering communities, and driving inclusive economic growth across the state—especially in rural and underserved areas.

“We can either stay on the path that sidelines our kids, weakens our schools, and silences our towns—or we can choose a future that values every student, every community, and every small business owner,” said Senator Love. “I’m running for Governor because I believe Arkansas works best when it works for all of us.”

Senator Love also unveiled his Place-Based Economic Development Plan, a comprehensive strategy to spark sustainable growth in rural and urban communities by investing in local assets and entrepreneurs.

Key pillars of the plan include:

- Establishing regional economic development hubs tailored to local industries and workforce needs
- Expanding access to startup capital, infrastructure, and grants for small businesses
- Partnering with HBCUs, community colleges, and high schools to align education with job creation
- Investing in broadband, water, and utility infrastructure to make every community business-ready

“We must stop measuring progress only by what happens in a few cities,” Love said. “Prosperity should be visible in our Delta towns, our Ozark communities, and our Main Streets—not just in spreadsheets.”

With over a decade of public service in the Arkansas General Assembly, Senator Love brings a legacy of advocacy for working families, equitable education, and grassroots economic development.
