Community members gathered at LR Chicken & Pancakes on June 16, 2026, for a town hall meeting hosted by Lil Rock Obama featuring congressional candidate Chris Jones. The event provided residents with an opportunity to engage directly with Jones, ask questions, and learn more about his vision for serving the community.

Attendees represented diverse backgrounds, races, and walks of life, reflecting the broad interest in the issues discussed throughout the evening. The town hall focused on topics affecting local residents, including homelessness, available community resources, and the role Congress plays in addressing challenges faced by everyday citizens.

Several attendees asked Jones how he would support the community if elected and what resources could be made available to individuals experiencing homelessness or facing housing instability. Jones responded with detailed and direct answers, offering insight into his priorities and approach to public service.

One of the evening's most memorable moments came when Jones shared his hopes for future generations.

Throughout the event, Jones emphasized community engagement, education, and accessibility. Attendees left with a greater understanding of how government functions and how elected officials can impact local communities.

The town hall created a space for residents to ask important questions, share concerns, and gain knowledge about issues affecting their daily lives. The evening demonstrated the value of direct community engagement and provided an opportunity for citizens to connect with a leader seeking to represent their interests.

The event served as a reminder that informed conversations and community involvement remain important components of civic participation and public service.
